Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Warm or very warm Thursday. Risk of thundery showers.

Today:
Any early showers with areas of mist, low cloud and fog soon clearing to leave a fine and largely dry day. Risk of an isolated thundery shower, mainly in the afternoon. Becoming warm, or very warm in the east. Maximum temperature 26 deg C (79 deg F).

Tonight:
A warm and humid night. Becoming generally cloudy, with the chance of some thundery rain moving into southern areas during the early hours. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
Largely cloudy on Friday, with a risk of some thundery rain in eastern areas. Fresher in the west and generally cooler than previous days. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Largely fine, dry and warm through this period with sunny spells. However isolated showers are possible on Sunday and Monday. Some coastal fog possible, especially on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.